DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. Claims 1-23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claims 1-23, “tolerance band” is indefinite because it is unclear what subject matter or force does the tolerance band tolerates. It is understood as “vibration tolerance band”.

In claim 21, “said top portion” lacks antecedence basis.

Other claims are included in this rejection due to their dependencies.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless --

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1-3, 10-11, 14-18, 23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being fully anticipated by one of the following references:

Becker (US 2154146) discloses a motor comprising: a housing; a stator and at least one wavy tolerance band ((20) fig 4) acting as a radial spring element positioned between the housing and the stator core.

Alternately, Spreen (US 1688891) discloses a motor comprising: a housing; a stator and at least one wavy tolerance band ((17) figs 1-2) acting as a radial spring element positioned between the housing and the stator core.

Or Norton et al (US 2632861) discloses a motor comprising: a housing; a stator and at least one wavy tolerance band ((13) figs 7) acting as a radial spring element positioned between the housing and the stator core.

Alternately, Takara et al (JP 404171316A) discloses a motor comprising: a housing; a stator and at least one wavy tolerance band ((14) figs 1, 3) acting as a radial spring element positioned between the housing and the stator core.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 4, 13 and 19-22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over one of the references listed in the above as applied in the rejection against the base claims, and further in view of level of ordinary skills of a worker in the art.

The Prior-art as applied in the 102 (b) rejection discloses the claimed invention, except for the added limitations of the tolerance band's material and the shape of the wave of the band.

Regarding the material of the tolerance, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to select a suitable material for the vibration-tolerance band, since it has been held to be within the general skill of a worker in the art to select a known material on the basis of its suitability for the intended use as a matter of obvious design choice. In re Leshin, 125 USPQ 416.

Regarding the shape of the vibration-tolerance band, the prior-art discloses a wavy vibration-tolerance band in general; thus, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the prior-art tolerance wavy band's wave configuration because a change in size or shape is generally recognized as being within the level of ordinary skill in the art. In re Rose, 105 USPQ 237 (CCPA 1955) (emphasis added).

Allowable Subject Matter

4. Claims 5-9 and 12 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
